About DCP

DCP Microdevelopments was founded in 1981 and is based in Norfolk on the East Coast of Britain.

DCP specialises in designing and manufacturing electronic equipment for education, although DCP products often find their way into homes and industry because of their ease of use, durability and good value. Wherever you choose to buy our products you can be assured of free support for life by telephone, email and online. We offer this because we believe that our products are the easiest to use of their kind, but in the unlikely event that you do have problems we really want to help, both so that you are satisfied and also so that we learn from the problems to improve the product or supporting literature for the future. We genuinely feel that good technology should actually make life easier, not more difficult!

Where to buy

LogIT products are available from a wide range of dealers and stockists in the UK and worldwide or direct from DCP. For the latest list of distributors with contact details & web links see 'Where to buy' on our website at www.logitworld.com

You can also buy direct from DCP where we have extensive stocks & usually able to ship most of our 200+ products within 1 working day. All prices in this brochure exclude VAT but include delivery to most UK mainland addresses; delivery outside the UK can easily be arranged - just contact us with the items you need and how quickly you need them and we will quote carriage by return.

To order our products you can pay by bank transfer, cheque or credit card, although schools and government departments in the UK automatically have a 30 day credit account and so can just FAX or email a purchase order.
